

Community gardens on non-city land in the Burlington area

The following list of community gardens is a snapshot of those known to be operating in 2016. Each garden is administered separately by the local community group noted. Some plots may be run collectively by garden volunteers, and others may offer plots for rent. Locate the garden you are interested in joining and contact them directly to learn more about how to participate. Availability of garden plots may vary, so you may need to join a wait list.
